Linseed Oil, as you all know, is crushed from Flax Seed.

America produced in 1908, 35,000,000 bushels.
In 1909, 25,700,000 bushels, making a shortage of one-third. Consequently, Linseed Oil is higher than for several years.
We have but one quality, and that is absolutely pure—95c a gallon. Cans extra.

ECZEMA CURED BY IMPERIAL REMEDY.
Who is there that has ever had this terrible disease that would not give anything they possessed to be cured? It matters not how long you have suffered, what you have tried, or if every part of your body is it itching, burning sore, a permanent cure awaits you. Thousands have been cured by the use of "Imperial Remedy," among them are people from every town and village in the south.
The instant "Imperial Remedy" is applied you feel relieved. This preparation has a pleasant odor, contains no grease or salve and requires no bandages. It is a clean liquid which penetrates the pores, loosens the fibrous tissues and purifies the diseased parts. After the disease has all been driven out the skin is left pure, clear, soft and white, and the trouble will never return again. The price of Imperial Remedy is $1 per bottle. Your local druggist can get it for you. If he will not, mail us $1, and we will send you a bottle by express, charges prepaid. Imperial Medicine Co., Houston, Texas.

WORK OF ASSOCIATED CHARITIES IN EL PASO

charity's reports are unsatisfactory. It is the easiest thing in the world to criticize a charity. One does not like its money or the lack of it, its economies or its generosity; the charity has been too prompt here or too slow there. These things are easy to say. They might possibly be said of the rabbi's own charity, the Health league, for perfect charity does not yet exist, and when it does come, the world will be perfect, and there will be no need of charity.

To Err on Mercy's Side.

The Charity admits that it can make mistakes, but its motto has been always to err on the side of mercy. For seven years the Women's Charity has not only been the only organization doing general charity work, but has been the only group of people making a definite effort to improve conditions permanently. From the first the Women's Charity has urged, and has accomplished some good in bettering the housing of the Mexicans in the lower part of the city. The Women's Charity has been the influence in the community that has ever modified by a jot or tittle the unspeakably bad conditions at the county hospital. And the Women's Charity has made the only effort that has been made to keep the city clean and to investigate, and to avoid fraud and duplication.

Its Practical Work.

The Women's Charity was the first to attempt to handle the tuberculosis problem with their tents for consumptives. The rabbi says that the Women's Charity has not established laundries or woodyards. On the other hand, for seven years the Women's Charity has been giving tubs, washboards, soap, fuel, stoves, bathtubs, and even individual women to start them to being working, self-supporting members of the community. The municipal wood-yard is a doubtful good in any community. To dump all charity applicants into a woodyard has been found neither humane nor effective. As an agent for sifting out husky tramps and healthy idlers, it has great value; but here in El Paso, where more than 50 percent of the unemployed American men are victims of tuberculosis, the woodyard is not a charitable institution. It would be more a matter for the city police to establish.

Seven Years' Work.

For seven years the Women's Charity has endeavored, so far as its time and its means would allow, to find employment for men who could and would work. The perfectly kind, and also the perfectly scientific, charity sifts out the unemployed men and attempts to dispose of them according to their abilities. The Women's Charity has quietly attempted something of this sort by telephoning to factories, smelters, foundries, and business men, trying to find employment for individual seekers. For the consumptives who are half sick they try to find garden work, or light outside work around the house. This is as far as they have gone in solving the problems of the unemployed in El Paso.

The rabbi's denunciation of the Charity's work is neither intelligent, systematic, nor honest so wholesome as to be ineffective. If 100 well known women of irreproachable home lives, some of them the best and strongest women in the rabbi's own congregation, do not do this work honestly and with common sense, who will do it? If they do not fairly represent the community, who does? One hundred women, the 40 or 50 merchants or business men who have allied themselves with the Charity's work by contributing to it, the several churches that are established members of the Charity, and the advisory board of officers of the city and county, and well known men, must create a body that is representative. And these the rabbi calls a clique.

Reports Always Published.

The Women's Charity reports are published every quarter. The books in the Charity office are open to the inspection of the public at the wish of any one. They are like any other public books, they are public property. The Women's Charity is not a fighting organization and cannot enter into any controversy. It is against its fundamental ideas. It was originally, and is still, simply an organization of women who desire to help comfort the city's poverty and distress. The women want no praise and no credit. There is no honor, no glory in the work. Seven years of the hardest kind of work have been put in, in the town. The Charity has never advertised its work, feeling that advertising was uncharitable. It has never quarreled among its own members or with any other organization. It has never paraded its virtues.

or its troubles. It has never asked applause. This statement is not official, nor authorized, but is simply the information of a charter member of the Charity. A Member of the Women's Charity.

THE PRICE OF EL PASO MEAT

stew. And then, that bull ring meat is all sold on the market over there. "Why not get down to brass tacks and find out what it costs to sell meat here. It costs between 2 and 3 percent to cut and deliver meat, not counting the amount lost during the year by selling meat on credit."

"In regard to salaries paid butchers, I want to say that El Paso pays the best salaries of any place in the state. El Paso pays good meat cutters from $15 to $18 a month, and in Houston they pay good meat cutters from $15 to $16 a week. When you take that into consideration, that puts the price on the meat."

"The retail prices have not been raised. They are the same as they were last summer, when meat was cheap. We bought pork loins from the packers Saturday at 14 1/2 cents a pound and sold them at 15 cents. Spare ribs, purchased at 12 1/2 cents a pound were sold at 12 cents and were retailed at 15 cents. The butchers are not making those prices on pork products."

"No, there has been no decrease in trade since the meat agitation. Our trade is better than it has been for two years and Saturday was a record breaker."

"The statement made by Harold Swift regarding the consumption of forequarter meat is true. The biggest demand for hindquarter meat while forequarters wholesale at about one cent under the cost of beef. Forequarter meat averages from 8 to 12 1/2 cents a pound."

Members of El Paso unions have declared their intention of bringing before the Central Labor union tonight the question of abstaining from meat, as other cities are doing, until the packers put down the prices.

THE WEATHER.

Forecasts.

El Paso and vicinity: Tonight fair, warmer; Tuesday fair.
New Mexico: Tonight partly cloudy, warmer; Tuesday fair in south, rain or snow and colder in north portion.
Texas: Tonight fair, warmer; Tuesday, partly cloudy weather, warming in southeastern portion.

Weather Conditions.

A barometric depression of considerable depth is central near the northern boundary of Montana, and rain during the last 24 hours is reported from Oregon, Washington and northern California.

A shallow barometric trough extends from the eastern portion of the lake region southward to the east gulf coast, and some rain has fallen in the gulf districts and snow flurries have occurred in the lake region.

Elsewhere throughout the country the weather has remained generally fair.

A continuation of fair weather is indicated for this locality tonight and Tuesday, with partly cloudy sky, and tonight slightly warmer.

SIX AMERICAN SOLDIERS ARRESTED IN JUAREZ

Uniforms Save Them From Being Fined, But Post Officers Are Notified.

Cheap booze of the republic is held accountable for the downfall of six American soldiers. In all the glory of the livery of Uncle Samuel they were picked up by a small army of Mexican police over in Juarez Sunday night.

In the Juarez police court this morning they were arraigned with 30 other "drunks." But the uniforms saved them from being fined. However, Uncle Sam was notified, and that usually means worse than a fine or a street cleaning assignment. It means guard house. Oh, my!

Waiting to be returned to their post the half dozen soldier boys sat on a long bench in the police station this morning. On every face was an expression of headache and horror. W. Verties, Harry R. J. W. Race, George C. Barton, Edward Manning and E. J. Bearey, is the way their names read on the official record.
